

Dimitra Chrysomalli, Communications Manager

Dimitra Chrysomalli is the Science Communication Manager for MASSTRUCT Project. She holds a Bachelor Degree in the Department of French Language and Literature from the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens. In 2003, she was awarded her M.A. in Applied Linguistics at Birkbeck College, University of London. During the past two decades, she has extensive experience as a communication manager in education and learning. Specifically, she has been responsible for developing dissemination and communication strategies and tools for various educational projects concerning the English, French and German language. Aside from her communication manager background, she has previous experience as HR manager and Executive PA to the President of a major Greek pharmaceutical company, namely Apivita.